SPECIAL POLICEMEN.

They Will Carefully Guard the Property of Citizens Tonight.

LAWLESSNESS TO BE STOPPED.

Arrests Ordered in Cases Where There is Reason to Suspect Mischief is Intended.

Mayor Bell has appointed special policemen to patrol every ward in the city tonight and prevent vandalism and lawlessness by over zealous Hallowe'en celebrators.

Although no formal proclamation has been issued by Mayor Bell he has authorized THE NEWS to say that the special officers are instructed to promptly arrest any person or persons detected in acts of lawlessness or suspected of having an intent to destroy property or otherwise inconvenience peaceable citizens.

Other years many persons have suffered pecuniary loss as well as loss of sleep by reason of the depredations of boys and girls who conceive such acts to be the only way to properly observe All Saint's night, and numerous citizens have approached the mayor with a request to use his power in suppressing the exuberant youths this year. He will do so.

By the appointment of the numerous special policemen it is expected to restrain marauding parties and protect the chattles of citizens.

TAXES LOWER.

HAPPY NEWS TO BENTON HARBOR PEOPLE.

The Rate Will Be 2 to 6 Cents Lower on Each $100 Than Last Year.

The supervisors are now at work on making out the tax rolls that go into the hands of the city treasurer December 1.

Supervisor John Seel of the third ward stated that the tax rate in the city this year would be about $3.78 on every $100 assessed. Last year the rate varied from $3.78 to $3.90. This difference of rate in the various wards is occasioned by the fact that where there are rejected taxes they are spread back on the tax rolls the next year. Last year the first and fourth wards suffered most from rejected taxes and in consequence their tax rate was higher than that paid in the second and third wards.

Taxpayers will rejoice over the even slight reduction made this year.

AMONG THE CRIMINALS.

Interesting Stories Obtained in Police Courts.

Edward Weaver was convicted yesterday before Justice Nichols of Berrien Springs, on the complaint of stealing a boat. He was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail, to which institution he was conveyed this morning by Deputy Sheriff Stowe.

Alfred Olson, yesterday sentenced to 30 days in the county jail, is said to have served time in the Michigan City jail for a serious offense. He was sent there from Lafayette, Ind. He does not have the appearance of being a wicked criminal.

William Burns, who yesterday received a sentence of four years in Jackson by Judge Coolidge, will be taken to that institution Monday by Sheriff Ferguson. The state prison authorities are particular in having convicts delivered promptly after being sentenced. Their time dates from the day of sentence and the profit of their labor for every day they are held by the sheriff after sentence is lost to the prison.

Thomas Mohawk, accused of the crime of soliciting to commit sodomy, has been discharged his case having been nolle prossed in the circuit court yesterday.

John McGee was received at the county jail yesterday morning to serve a sentence of 60 days for the larceny of some leather from Joseph Tuttle, a Niles shoemaker, who had McGee in his employ. Justice Dobson heard the case.

AGAIN TONIGHT.

Simon Comedy Company Will Appear at Conkey's.

The Simon Comedy company will give another of its pleasing performances at Conkey's opera house tonight. The bill is "Rip Van Winkle," not a new play, but one which artists, such as the Simon company includes, can produce in a manner to interest any audience. The price of admission are 25 and 10 cents.

THE WEATHER.

Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday with possible showers in north portion. Warmer Sunday.

DEAM IS FREE.

CASE IN UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT DISMISSED.

Lawyer Cady Advised of the Result of the Proceeding this Morning.

This morning Lawyer A. P. Cady received the information from the office of the United States district attorney in Grand Rapids that the criminal proceeding against Henry D. Dean, vice president of the Tunnel line, for an alleged violation of the postal law in opening a letter said to be another's, had been dismissed. Mr. Cady appeared with G. M. Valentine as counsel for Dean at the preliminary hearing of the latter before United States District Court Commissioner O'Hara.

ONLY 2 PER CENT.

PROPORTION OF THE GOLD HUNTERS SUCCESSFUL.

Man Who Made a Million Talks Discouragingly of the Prospects.

A few days ago THE NEWS printed the fact that a friend of C. J. Peck's at Manchester, Mich., had returned from the Yukon country a millionaire. Mr. Peck wrote for the particulars and the reply was rather discouraging. Here is the letter:

MANCHESTER, Mich., Oct. 25—C. J. Peck—Dear Sir: By request of Bert Rose I reply to your letter to him. I returned from the Yukon country last July and although I was extremely fortunate in the result of my trip the proportion of those who are so small that I cannot conscientiously encourage anyone else to go. Only 2 per cent of those who were there when I came out have first class claims.

Yours cordially,

T. S. LIPPY.

A GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

It Is Being Made by Alderman McDonald on that Main Street.

What was an unsightly frog pond along East Main street a few months ago has been filled in by Captain McDonald, the enterprising alderman from the second ward. Instead of an eyesore it is now transformed into desirable business property. Mr. McDonald has just commenced the erection of a feed shed on the property that will extend from Main to Highland avenue.

SPECIAL CAR.

It Will be Run to Dowagiac Monday Night.

If a company of 50 members can be formed a special car will be chartered of the M. B. H. & C. railway company to go to Dowagiac Monday night, and witness the opening of the season's performance by the Katie Putnam company. All those who would like to join the party may so signify to Frank P. Graves or Dr. Bastar.

HOME LITERARY.

TO THE DEATH

Death is the most sure,
The dread and flight of man's fears,
Who only earthly pleasures know,

O cruel death!

To eyes of faith how changed thou art!
Thou bringest poison to the heart,
While sin and death for aye depart,
O friendly death!

When, through bereavement, we our eyes
Turn, for the first time, to the skies,
Thou art a blessing in disguise,
O mischievous death!

Thou art of faith's far-reaching chain
The pearly clasp that knits the gain
Of heaven to earth's want and pain,
O precious death!

Thou art the dawn from this dark night.
Thou dost long part friends unite,
For doubt and trust thou givest sight,
O blessed death!

—Sophie Dallas Haseltine in New York Sun.

IN THE GLASS.

It was May Waldegrave's sympathetic nature rather than her charms of face and figure that led Mark Carstone, the author of "A Trifling Affair," to bestow his friendship upon her. Carstone had sought long for a bright, intellectual maiden of romantic temperament with whom he could discuss his work, and when he met May his search was at an end. She was tender and ardent and entered into his work with enthusiasm. She was elated at the honor vouchsafed her, and for a time the friendship ran on in the smoothest of grooves.

For a time, of course, it could not last forever. May was the first to realize this. Her face bore a rueful look as this fact forced itself upon her. Carstone's indifference to women's personal charms was proverbial. He was so absorbed in his own puppets that he had no time to devote to those who trod the human stage. In vain she wore her prettiest gowns—he never seemed to notice those things like other men.

And yet he wrote the most delightful love stories—wrote, too, as though he had sounded every note on love's lyre. As May finished his last book she felt that in spite of his seeming ignorance he knew more about a woman's heart than most men of her acquaintance. Tears of vexation stood in her blue eyes as she thought of her folly. Her girl friends one and all refused to believe that literature always formed the subject of those long discussions she held with him in secluded corners and were beginning to "talk."

At Lady Barrowmire's reception she was sitting beneath a big palm discussing "A Trifling Affair" with its author. Most girls of May's age called him old. He was barely 35, but a certain thinness in the dark hair made him appear more.

"So you think it the best thing I have ever done?" he said.

"Oh, yes."

"Yet some of the critics say otherwise. Kirk, now, in The Scarifier, simply tears it to shreds."

She tossed her head in contempt.

"Oh, Kirk! Why, he is 60, and, as every one knows, he was jilted in his youth."

"What has that got to do with it?" he asked in surprise.

"Everything. You can't expect a woman hater to appreciate a love story."

"True."

"Only a girl should criticise such a book. I think it is perfect, and when I know that you have written it—well, I think it is wonderful."

"Why should you think that?"

"Because I had no idea you knew such a lot about girls—about love."

"I don't know much."

"You know everything. That girl in your story—Beatrice—is very lifelike."

"I am glad you think so," he said, his pale face flushing with pleasure.

"There is one part especially that seems to me so very true."

"What part is that?"

"Where she is thinking of her future lover, picturing the kind of man she would like."

"You believe all girls have such fancies?"

She bent her head. "I know they have," she answered shyly.

"You—you have had them yourself?" he said, after a short pause.

"Yes."

He leaned back in his chair and fixed his mild eyes reflectively on the ceiling. "I wonder if I could picture the hero of your dream," he murmured in a musing tone.

She laughed—a little, nervous laugh.

"I don't think you could."

"Now I do," he said briskly.

"Try."

"Very well. First of all, he must be young."

"He needn't be very young."

"About 25?"

"Oh, more!"

"Thirty?"

"Thirty-five would be better," she murmured, studying the point of her satin slipper.

"Thirty-five! Why, that's my age. You don't want an old man!"

"You're not an old man."

"I must seem so to you."

"Indeed you don't," she replied earnestly. "Besides, I don't like boys."

He nodded. "I see. Well, 25. Hand-some?"

"No, I shouldn't call him exactly handsome. I mean—that is," blushing furiously, "it's not absolutely necessary."

"Rich!"

"Moderately."

"Clever!"

"Yes, very clever."

"Ah! A brilliant politician?"

"No; I think I should prefer him to be a writer."

"A good one?"

"Yes."

"A good one?"

BENTON HARBOR, MICH., SATURDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1897.

PETERSON IS NEXT.

His Trial in the Circuit Court Will Begin Next Thursday Morning.

JURY IS ALREADY IMPANELLED.

Much Speculation Over the Theory Upon Which the Defense Will Rest Its Case.

Thursday the trial of Peter Peterson, who last summer went to the home of his sweetheart, Miss Eliza Harris, in this city, and because she would not marry him attempted to send a bullet through her heart, will begin in the circuit court.

A jury was impanelled yesterday afternoon and the examination of witnesses will begin Thursday morning. It is a matter of considerable speculation as to what tack the defense will take. It was suggested early in the history of the case that the plea of insanity would be advanced, but Peterson's conduct in jail since the commission of the crime has been perfectly rational, and there is nothing, it is thought, upon which such a theory could be founded.

Peterson is not ruffled over the approach of his hearing. He bears up under the strain with wonderful fortitude. This attitude is the result of a conviction that he will be acquitted. One thing greatly in his favor is the evidence he has of previous good character, the strongest testimony along this line being contained in a communication from an official high in authority in Sweden, Peterson's native land.

Three convicted and self-confessed criminals were sentenced by Judge Coolidge yesterday afternoon. They were William Burns, John Morgan, and Alfred Olsen. Burns, who was convicted of assault with intent to do great bodily harm, must serve a term of four years in Jackson at hard labor. He grabbed an eight-year-old boy off a street at St. Joseph and dragged him under the hill near the street railway power house where he was discovered in the act of choking the boy to death. The strongest feature about the trial of Burns was that the evidence failed to unearth a motive for the crime. John Morgan, convicted of receiving a watch stolen from Agent Hedrick, of the M. R. H. & C. railway, at Berrien Springs, received a sentence of 90 days in the county jail. Alfred Olsen, who confessed his guilt to the charge of committing an assault upon a Stevensville officer, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail. Olsen and Morgan each have already served more than 30 days in jail awaiting a hearing this at term of court.

The circuit court will not convene again until next Thursday, Judge Coolidge being occupied in Cassopolis.

HALLOWE'EN PRANKS

Are Due Tonight as October 31 Falls This Year on Sunday.

As golden October brings its splendors to a close, thoughts of Hallowe'en fit through the mind of youth and the romantic maiden dreams of the future while she plans the trying of diverse spells and charms on the fateful night of October 31. That is the time when all the spirits are supposed to be abroad and are thought by the superstitious to have power over their friends and relatives still in the flesh. Back in the dim recesses of the past are found the traditions of Hallowe'en, half hidden under the cobwebs of paganism and mystery. The quaint rites and observances are relics of semi-barbarism, for writers of antiquity trace the festival even into the shades of the dusky Orient. Greeks, Romans, and Druids observed Hallowe'en with peculiar solemnity, and All Hallow's day (November 1) is probably from the Anglo-Saxon word Haligan, meaning holy.

AFTER HOLLIS.

JUDGE COOLIDGE ORDERS HIM TO APPEAR IN COURT NOV. 4.

And Show Cause Why a Mandamus Should Not be Issued Against Him.

An order citing him to appear in the circuit court November 4, next, and show cause why a peremptory mandamus should not be issued compelling him to give a certificate of the number of shares of stock he owns in the Benton Harbor Electric Railway & Transit company was served upon W. H. Hollis yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Tennant.

The order was issued several days ago by Judge Coolidge upon affidavit by Lawyer A. P. Cady and Constable R. C. Simsbaugh that Hollis had refused such certificate upon a demand made by them October 6, when a levy was made under an execution issued in Justice Cady's court September 30 for a judgment of $49.88 and $2.45 costs, obtained by Mrs. Sarah Burke.

It is thought that no further proceeding will be necessary to get Mr. Hollis to talk concerning his interest in the Tunnel company and the probability is he will furnish a certificate of the number of shares he owns without the assistance of a mandamus. He told Deputy Tennant that he had refused to divulge this information, but he was not now unwilling to talk. He said he owned the undivided one-half of one share. If Mr. Hollis certifies to this statement before November 4, Lawyer A. P. Cady, counsel for Mrs. Burke, will drop the proceedings.

COUNTY.

Coloma.

COLOMA, Oct. 30.—From the Coloma Courier: Fred Blake returned from Benton Harbor Tuesday, where he had been receiving medical treatment.

Hog cholera has broken out among the hogs in this vicinity, many farmers having lost a number of fine fat hogs and pigs. It seems to be spreading northward and is increasing in violence.

Mrs. W. H. Ball and Miss Ella Brattton attended the county Sunday school convention at Buchanan Tuesday and Wednesday.

Miss Nellie Culver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Culver, of Benton Harbor, is the guest of her grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Culver.

The Rev. L. G. Herbert does valiant service in the good cause of temperance throughout Van Buren county this week, having spoken at Lawrence Monday night, at Buchanan Tuesday, at Kendall Wednesday, at Keeler Thursday, at Paw Paw Friday, at Lawton Saturday and will speak at Hartford Sunday morning and at South Haven Sunday evening.

"Skinny" was one of the most skillful mousers among the feline families of Coloma's business district, a fond and indulgent mother and of exemplary nocturnal habits. Many a growler had been flushed from the neighborhood of her home in defense of her hunting preserves and her helpless babes, and many ferocious mouse and quarrelsome sparrow had gone down before her. But like others of other races who have possessed remarkable talents, and hourly exposed to temptation from her associates and surroundings as she was, in a weak moment "Skinny" yielded to the voice of the tempter and attempted to rush the can. It was a Cove oyster can, and though a little battered, if you will, the scent of the toothsome bivalves still lingered within it. It was resistless. "Skinny" inserted her head into the can, which fitted it like a Shaker bonnet, and licked the interior clean. When she attempted to back out of it the can moved forward, pushed by the avenging spirits of the coves who formerly occupied it. Unable to see where she was drifting "Skinny" finally backed into an open cistern full of water and was drowned, her body being fished out with a hoe within a day or two following. Her fate is a sad but probably unheeded warning.

Buchanan.

BUCHANAN, Oct. 30.—From the Record. Invitations are out for the marriage of Miss Florence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Hinman, to Alfred Hall, which will occur Wednesday, November 3.

The twin cities should feel elated over the recommendation of $100,000 for the St. Joseph harbor and the Record sincerely hopes that our neighbors at the mouth of the river will get the appropriation.

One night last week, Hotel Stephens was so crowded that Landlord A. C. Stephens was unable to accommodate all of his guests who applied for lodgings, and some were even occupying cots in the hall.

Messrs. Wolcott & Moulton have secured the contract for painting and papering the old court house and buildings at Berrien Springs, recently purchased by the county by J. Sherlock Allen. They started on the work yesterday, and the job will take about one month to complete.

THE RIGHT AND THE WRONG WAY.

Old Methods Fail to Cure Many Diseases of Women.

In every phase of life we are confronted with that vital and most important question, Which is the right way or the true course, which path will lead us most surely and safely to the goal of our desire? When paths diverge, invariably one is the right one and the other the wrong, and this is also true in the application of different methods and doctrines advanced by different people as being the best for certain purposes. For instance, the efficacy of trying to effect a cure for the many diseases of the generative and menstrual organs of women by taking strong medicines and drugs into the stomach has already been proven. Common sense teaches that such a course is beyond doubt the wrong one. A more simple and speedy cure is obtained by applying the healing agent directly to the parts affected. That is why MAGNOLIA BLOSSOM, the greatest of female remedies, has attained its great popularity. Ladies find in it a simple, inexpensive home treatment that possesses a wonderful healing power, exerts a strengthening and soothing influence over the organs of womanhood, and is a never failing cure for these peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and painful derangements so common nowadays among women of all ages. It is equally effective and necessary for girls, the wife, with her domestic and maternal cares, and the woman approaching the Change of Life. Thousands of women are curing themselves by its use privately in their own homes without medical aid.

PRESS COMMENTS ON GEORGE.

Chicago Record: The death of Henry George, cutting short as it does his candidacy for mayor and following his sensational and popular onslaughts on bossism as represented by Croker and Platt, especially the former, is likely to prove the determining factor in the Greater New York campaign. George's death naturally means a stampede to Low, not only from his own followers but from the supporters of the regular republican candidate as well. The fight is clearly between Low and Croker's candidate. With the issue thus clearly presented, and with the honest democrats educated by the wonderful campaign of Henry George to hate Crokerism, the friends of good government and the enemies of boss rule in politics stand a fair chance of naming the first mayor of Greater New York.

Chicago Chronicle: The epithets and "cran" and "charlatan," as applied to Henry George, easily sprang to the lips of a public ready to condemn what they did not understand, for it is remarkable in this nation, undoubtedly intelligent, that the average intelligence is disinclined to do anything outside the routine of the particular activity in which it is engaged. We are an intelligent but an intellectually lazy nation. We shun inquiry and are far more conservative, especially with reference to civic policies, than we think. Henry George was a radical. He was condemned, therefore, without a hearing. He did not get the ear of the whole nation, but those who heard believed.

Henry George is entitled to high place in the annals of American statesmen, not that he gained place, but that he formulated and defended an unselfish plan, the purpose of which was that purpose to which all statesmen ought to be devoted—the uplifting of the human family.

Chicago Inter-Ocean: Mr. George had a distinct following, by no means confined to New York—in a sense a party, that he had, and in the service of which he died. His life was unselfish in that it was devoted to a cause. He lies on the field of battle, struck down at the crisis of a momentous contest, a sacrifice to personal ambition and to a zeal that was like the merciless fury of a conflagration. This is no time or place to criticize the articles of his faith. His creed was not as ours, but we admit, and always have admitted, that he held to his creed in as good faith and with as firm a conviction of its fitness for the betterment of mankind as did any of the great leaders of the present or the past. His followers well may say, "Know ye not that this day is dead a prince and a leader in Israel?"

THE art sale of the Universalist ladies at Conkey's hall last evening was not as profitable as might have been. The artistic pictures met such a limited demand that only a few were offered for sale. Doubtless the remainder of these works of art will be sold at public sale.

At the First Congregational church tomorrow evening the following program will be rendered: Organ voluntary, Prof. Arthur Nelson; anthem, "Praise we the Lord," chorus; responsive reading; hymn; scripture; anthem, "He Shall Feed His Flock," Mrs. Charles Stone and chorus; prayer; anthem, "Hear My Prayer," Mrs. Cady and chorus; offertory; solo, "He Takes Our Grief," Mrs. Stone; remarks; response; choir: "Evening Song," ladies' quartet and chorus; benediction.

IT will be necessary to have another auction sale before the desk and clothing of Wile, the former dashing proprietor of the Brunswick billiard hall, are sold. At the recent sale Wile bid on his desk, that contained love letters and the pictures of sweet blossoms galore, for $31 and his outfit of old clothes for $50. He claimed he was bidding them for a Chicago man, but the latter refuses to take them and pay the big price at which they were knocked off. Attorney Bridgeman says that the public will get another chance to bid on the love epistles of Wile's collection of beauties.

Great Effort of Henry George for the Office of Mayor of Greater

New York.

PRESS COMMENTS ON HIM.

The World Has Just Begun to Appreciate His Worth and Merit.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—In accepting the nomination of the Jeffersonian democracy for mayor of Greater New York, Henry George, whose death was announced in these dispatches yesterday, said:

"I'll make this race if it costs me my life. It is a call to duty and as a good citizen I have no right to disregard it on account of mere personal consideration."

The cheers of the workers have suddenly been changed to sighs, for true to his word, Henry George, the apostle of the rights of men, died as he wished to die—in harness fighting for the cause—toward the close of the greatest municipal political contest the world has ever seen.

The end was peaceful, and he died without pain. This man of mighty brain and undaunted courage was physically frail, and the strain of an exciting campaign requiring speech-making night after night was more than nature could stand. He kept it up to the end, and only a few hours before the grim messenger called halt Henry George had addressed enthusiastic audiences in three of the towns of the borough of Queens, and a still larger assemblage in an uptown hall here.

He spoke at Whitestone at 8 o'clock Thursday night, and made speeches at College Point and Flushing before returning to New York to speak at the Central opera house. Mrs. George went with him. All the halls in which he spoke were filled and at College Point and Flushing crowds were turned away. At Whitestone he drove to the railroad station on a gallop. To the cheering crowds he said:

"I believe that all the needed reforms are summed up in that philosophy—the right of every man to eat, to drink, to speak as he sees fit, so long as he does not trench on the right of any other man. I believe that God, the Father, can take care of his own laws: there is no need for us to gain trouble trying to meddle with God's laws, to enforce them."

"If I am elected—and I believe that I will be elected—I will enforce the law upon the rich and poor alike. I have pledged myself to search out the charges popularly made against Richard Croker. If I am elected these charges shall be investigated. If they are proved untrue, let him go unscathed back to England or any other land he pleases. But if they are true," Mr. George's voice rang out in menacing tones that visibly excited his audience, "let the law be enforced. Let him go to the penitentiary. He shall go there."

Mr. George picked up his hat, saying goodby, and started for the door. The crowd rose, cheering, and elbowed and fought to get near him. They reached out their hands to touch his clothing.

At College Point there were 1,200 common laborers, a rough crowd, closely packed in the hall. Mr. George was introduced as the friend of the workingman. He began:

"I have never claimed to be a friend of the workingman. I do not now make any such claim. (There was a pause of dead silence.)

"I have not and do not intend to advocate anything in the special interest of the laboring man. (Another dead pause. Mr. George walked the full length of the platform and let out his full voice in a shout.)

"I am for men."

The crowd set up such a cheering and stamping that the room was filled with a choking dust.

"I am for men—the equal rights of all men. Let us be done with asking privileges for the laboring men."

There was much cheering and shouting as the speaker pushed his way out of the hall. He drove to Flushing, a long ride, at the end of which he spoke to 1,800 people, who had waited an hour to see and cheer for their idol.

Off again, and this time to a hall in the center of Manhattan island. Here there was prolonged cheering.

"I hear above your shouts the rooster's crow," he said. "Next Tuesday you will hear that rooster crow again, and the part of freedom and of the common people will come in again, after years of longing and of waiting, and after various other kinds of democracy, after that of Cleveland, after that of Croker."

"I have traveled much, wishing, after the democratic fashion, to show myself to the people whose suffrage I ask. I have met everywhere crowds like this, intense in spirit and large in numbers. After meeting them I believe I shall be elected."

"Since 1896 I have not hid my light under a bushel. You know what I believe. I believe in meeting my fellow men and talking to them. If elected I will honestly, fearlessly and conscientiously carry out the principles for which I stand. You may believe me and trust the result."

Then Henry George broke away from the crowd; his long day's work was over; his busy life's work was done. He went to his hotel after midnight, hoping to get a few hours sleep, and rise strong enough for a still more arduous day's work, for he was to have addressed six great meetings last night.

Mr. George arrived at the hotel about 12 o'clock at night. The work of the night seemed to have told on him. He complained of being tired, but his wife and relatives who waited him were not to be moved. Meticulously

NOT GUILTY.

Jury's Verdict in Richards' Murder Case.

ANN ARBOR, Oct. 30.—The Richards' murder case has ended in a verdict of not guilty. The jury retired shortly before 8 o'clock last evening. They had not agreed at 9 o'clock and Judge Kinne adjourned court until this morning.

At 10:30 o'clock the jury sent word that it had agreed and a few minutes later came into court. When the foreman, Robert Campbell, announced the verdict to the court the applause from the immense crowd present was deafening.

A CHARGE OF MURDER.

Old Man Williams Will Have to Answer
to It.

HOWARD CITY, Oct. 30.—The coroner's jury investigating the killing of R. Baldwin, who was shot by John Williams, 10 miles northwest of here Thursday afternoon, brought in a verdict that he came to death at the hands of Williams. A warrant was immediately issued charging Williams with murder.

Williams is 71 years old and appears unconcerned.

SUIT BEGUN.

Receiver of Busted Lansing Bank Starts
Legal Proceedings.

LANSING, Oct. 30.—Much interest is being manifested in the suit brought by the receivers of the People's Savings bank against Charles Bros to recover on notes and overdrafts aggregating $22,000. Bros, who was a prominent clothier at Jackson, Lansing and Battle Creek, and a director of the People's bank, claims that he turned over to the bank certain sums of money, stock and lands for which he has never been given credit. Thus far the proofs have not fully established the defendant's contention, but the case is being watched for disclosures in connection with the manner in which the funds of the People's bank were disposed of.

SPARROW FIGHTS A LAW.

It Was Passed in the Interest of the Wealthy Man's Sister.

LANSING, Oct. 30.—Attorneys for E. W. Sparrow, whose sister Henrietta was declared to be insane by the probate court, have attacked the constitutionality of the new law. It provided that an appeal can be taken in cases of insane people from the probate court to the circuit court. Judge Person will hear the case next week and then it will be carried to the supreme court.

John Fairfield, of Grand Rapids, once a leader of the Kent county bar and one of the leading criminal lawyers in Michigan, was yesterday arrested on the charge of withholding $12 collected for a client.

paper—paper more commonly used—is the one in which the toning and fixing are done separately.
A favorite bath is made as follows:
Make a stock solution of 18 grains of chloride of gold and sodium (price, 40 cents) and 7½ ounces water and a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda.
A saturated solution is a liquid which contains a little more of the substance placed in it than it can dissolve and is shown by a deposit at the bottom of the bottle or vessel in which it is placed.
Mark the bottle containing the gold
"Gold Solution," and the bottle containing the soda "Bicarbonate of Soda Solution." To make the toning bath take one-half ounce of the gold solution and add 8½ ounces of water. Dip a piece of blue litmus paper into the solution, and if it does not turn the paper red add a little more of the gold. Then put in enough of the bicarbonate of soda solution to turn the litmus paper back to blue. The soda should be added a few drops at a time and the mixture stirred with a glass rod. Mix the bath half an hour before needed for use. Place the prints in this bath, and tone till nearly the desired color. Rinse and place for five minutes in a fixing bath composed of an ounce of hyposulphite of soda and 8 ounces of water. Wash in running water for half an hour.—Harper's Round Table.

The Editor's Week.

A New Jersey suburbanite tells this one:

There is an editor in our little town who just for the present wishes he were somewhere else. Dosing to compliment the schoolteachers of the place and extend the circulation of his newspaper among them, he wrote an elaborate article, which he headed, "Pension a Lot of Our Schoolteachers." He then continued in an eloquent strain to declare that "there are about a dozen of the best known teachers in our schools who, because of their long service in the harness, should be pensioned immediately." Of course the intelligent compositor got in his work, and as the old man failed to read his proof he was horrified to find his paper declaring that there were a lot of old schoolteachers in that town who ought to be "pensioned" immediately. The editor informs me, with tears in his eyes, that this is one of those unpleasant episodes which occur to an editor now and then.—Hardware.

The Windup of an Englishman.

It was a shrewd observation of one of the keenest critics of the Anglo-Saxons mind that ever lived, Cardinal Newman, that it takes an immense time to wind up an Englishman to the level of a dogma—that is to say, to get him to understand what a dogma is, what it involves, what it necessarily asserts and what it unavoidably denies. Often when, after great toil, with pulleys and hoists, encouragements in front and goads behind, the Englishman's bullet head slowly appears almost on the level of the ground, something goes wrong somewhere, and down he falls to the very bottom of the pit, and the work of winding him up has to be begun all over again.—"The Law of Employers,"
by Augustine Birrell.

JULIUS HOBBS, M. D.

The favorable result of the recent test in this city of the value of Dr.
Hobbs Sparagus Kidney Pills as a remedy for disease of the kidneys and kindred ailments has caused sufferers residing here and in adjoining towns who obtained free samples a few weeks ago to go to the drug stores for full sized boxes. The pills seem to be in general demand.

Letters from recovering and cured patients are coming in daily. Physicians are astounded at the rapid improvement in cases treated with these wonderful pills.

And one, who had little idea that his words would ever appear in print, was recently overheard to say: "I have never had faith in anything advertised as a medicine until recently, but must confess that I really believe that Dr.
Hobbs Sparagus Kidney Pills are a remedy of great worth. I procured some of these pills and used them in my practice. Several of my patients have been taking them, and have experienced a great change for the bet-

THE JUMPING OFF PLACE

of the United States in Northwestern Washington is a region of unusual grandeur.

A wild craggy range of mountains, the Olympics, looks out upon the waters of the Pacific Ocean and the strait of Juan de Fuca. The high peaks of the range are crested with eternal snow and ice. Deep in their hollows are lakes of great depth and crystal purity.
The flanks of the mountains are covered with the finest timber in the United States. Giant pines, cedars and firs rise 100, 200 and even 300 feet in the air. The streams race through wild ravines and are full of mountain trout.

It is a paradise for the woodsmen and angler. The lakes have large and new varieties of trout in them that fight viciously for life. It is a land little known and explored, perhaps less so than any region of equal area in the United States.

W. H. ENGLERIGHT ACCUSED OF SERIOUS CRIME.

Said to Have Piled Ties on the Tracks of the M. B. H. & C. Rail-way.

Prosecutor Valentine today ordered the arrest of W. H. Engleright on a complaint charging him with obstructing the tracks of the Milwaukee, Benton Harbor & Columbus railway. Engleright is a farmer, living several miles south of Berrien Springs. The prosecuting attorney sent Lawyer Sam Kelley to Berrien Springs this morning to represent the people in Justice Nichols' court before whom Engleright will be brought. His preliminary hearing will probably be adjourned until next Monday or Tuesday, unless he waives examination, when he will be bound over to the circuit court.

The relations between Engleright and the railway company have been unpleasant ever since the road was built across his farm. Last Sunday a pile of posts was found upon the railway tracks near Engleright's home and the railway company claims to have evidence that connects Engleright with the crime.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

PRESIDENT McKinley has designated Thursday, November 15, as Thanksgiving day.

ALDERMAN McDonald is digging out the pretty shade trees in front of his new block on East Main street.

A PETITION is being circulated and largely signed asking the council for an electric light at the corner of East Main and Bluff streets. The opening of the new car line will make the better lighting of East Main street necessary.

DR. Conger's lecture to women, at the residence of Mrs. J. R. Eastman, was well attended and much enjoyed by those present. Many expressed regret that the doctor's stay in our midst must be so short. Caramel coffee and delicious health foods were served by Mrs. Neeley, of 12th Briar Avenue, who is agent for the Battle Creek Sanitarium foods.

ST. JOSEPH.

Dr. Reynolds will go to Lansing Monday to attend a meeting of the state pharmacy board in that city Tuesday.

The Epworth League of the Methodist church gave a ghost social at the home of Clarence Danforth on Pleasant street last night. Those in attendance were enveloped in sheets and attired as to represent ghosts. A thrilling ghost story was told by Dr. Schwendener, and a ghost song was rendered by Edmund and Miss Clara Edmunds, of Benton Harbor. Many laureates from Benton Harbor were in attendance.

Miss Edna Hall, well known in this city, is employed as composer on a Three Rivers paper.

Mr. and Mrs. Hammond entertained a happy party of friends last evening with a musical program. Mrs. A. W. Nelson, of Benton Harbor, sang two charming solos and by the urgent solicitation of the company was induced to sing, "Song and Sigh," a rare selection by her husband, Prof. Nelson.

The prevailing fashion this winter is for black dresses and jackets, and this is pleasing to the woman who wishes to look well, but has not the money to buy new clothing. Even an inexperienced person can, by using the Diamond Dyes, fast blacks, color their old clothes a black that will not crack, fade, or wash out. There are three special Diamond Dyes, fast blacks, for wool, for cotton and mixed goods, and for silk and feathers, and if the proper dye is used, any woman can get better results than the experienced dyer could a few years ago.

Unlike some of the cheap imitations of Diamond Dyes, these dyes come in almost every conceivable color, so that the woman who wishes a special color can get it in the Diamond Dyes. Practical tests prove that the fast Diamond Dyes are the only dyestuffs that make colors which soap will not wash out nor sunlight fade.

Pleasure and Prosperity.

Money is a convenient measure for almost every sort of endeavor, and to want more money wherewith to discharge our obligations and to help the needy and promote good works, as well as to increase our personal comfort, comes very near being a plious desire. Thrift and honesty come near, in the eyes of contemporary thinkers, to godliness. We have certainly made a great gain in thrift, and there is no reason to think that, as a people, we have retrograded in honesty. We of this generation, when we get into a scrape, are not so much disposed to insist that it was God's will as to reason together and to find out what stupid thing we have done, or what wise thing we have neglected, that has resulted so disastrously. This we do, not necessarily because we are less religious than our forbears, but perhaps because we are somewhat more reasonable than they. It does not seem certain that this increased sense of our own responsibility is a development that is to be regretted.

However, if any of our friends who are solicitous for our welfare have been disappointed in some of the effects or lack of effect of adversity upon us let us hope that they will be disappointed again, and more agreeably, in the spiritual results of any prosperity that may be vouchsafed to us.—Scribner's.

Wasted Indignation.

The man with the florid face and the bald head grew more and more uneasy as he sat at the restaurant table. He tried to read a newspaper, but every now and then would drop it, adjust his glasses and glare up and down the room to find the waiter to whom he had given his order. At last he managed to detain him, at the risk of being scolded by the soup he carried, and inquired:

"How about that dinner I ordered?"

"It will be here immediately, sir," was the answer.

The guest tried to read his newspaper once more, but as time passed his uneasiness increased until he was glaring up and down the room as fiercely as ever. He found his waiter again, and the same conversation was repeated. After two or three more similar attempts he arose and went over to another waiter who was gracefully leaning against a pillar.

"Look here," said the guest, "I want to know something."

"Yes," responded the waiter.

"What I want to know is this: Am I ever going to get any dinner, and, if I do get it, when will it be?"

The languid young man looked at him and replied:

"Excuse me. I'm afraid you have made a mistake. I am only a waiter, not a prophet."—Detroit Free Press.

Origin of the Ancient Etruscans.

We know less of the language used by the Etruscans than of many other details of their existence—only enough to be assured that it was of an exceedingly primitive type. It was constructed upon as fundamentally different a system from the Aryan tongues as is the Basque, described in our last paper. It seems to have been, like the Basque, allied to the great family of languages which includes the Lapp, Finns and Hungarians in modern Europe and the aborigines of Asia and America. These unfortunate similarities led to all sorts of queer theories as to the racial origin of the people, as wild, many of them, as those invented for the Basques. It never occurred to any one to differentiate race, language and culture one from another, distinct as each of the trio may be in our eyes today. If a philologist found similarity in linguistic structure to the Lapp, he immediately jumped to the conclusion that the Etruscans were Lapps and Lapland the primitive seat of the civilization. Thus Taylor in his early work asserts an Asiatic origin akin to the Finns. Then Pauli and Doecke for a time independently traced them to the same Turanian source.—Popular Science Monthly.

Encouraging.

"Come in, sir," said the ardent young college graduate who had just established a literary paper in a flourishing town, according to the Chicago Tribune. "You are my first caller. I dare say I am right in surmising that you have come to extend a helping hand to this enterprise, so far, at least, as to enroll your name in the list of subscribers. It is no light task, I assure you, to publish a paper of this character, even in larger cities than this, and I look upon it as a duty every good citizen owes to himself to take advantage of every opportunity to improve his mind and elevate his literary taste—to say nothing of the larger duty he owes to society."

First Caller—I don't mind subscribing for the durned paper if you'll take your pay in sorgum molasses.

TO THE PUBLIC.

As a stranger soliciting a share of your patronage it is but just to you and to myself that I make some mention of my fitness for the work I would undertake. I come from a medical family, my father, brother and many relatives being physicians. I have attended and hold credentials from leading homeopathic and allopathic medical colleges. For eighteen years I have successfully conducted a large practice. I have held high office in State and National medical societies, and received honorary professional recognition from abroad. I have had considerable hospital experience, am something of a medical writer and author, and have been professor in reputable medical colleges.

These frank statements can be easily verified. If they commend me to your confidence it will give me pleasure to professionally advise and assist healthward all who need and desire my services.

I am prepared to and will practice all branches of medicine and surgery, but because of special research, experience and success in this direction, greatly prefer and particularly invite those suffering from obscure, complicated, delicate, and all chronic or lingering diseases to consult me. Obstinate cases that others have failed to cure are solicited.

My office is at 112 East Main street, one door east of the postoffice.

Respectfully, C. EDSON COVEY, M. D.
